Need help!	HPOmen	khatta_nuttela	93	1	https://www.reddi	It's very expensive here in India like ₹18000/205$
Need help!	HPOmen	khatta_nuttela	93	1	https://www.reddi	Yes in that case it's normal but the thing is by this the thermal paste and putty will degrade , will have less life if you get a colling pad it will help in giving cold air to the bottom which sucks the air and flow it outwards thru the side vents
Need help!	HPOmen	khatta_nuttela	93	1	https://www.reddi	I know your feelings as I also don't have much results in academics still I got this laptop
Need help!	HPOmen	khatta_nuttela	93	2	https://www.reddi	Yes but if someone is buying this much cost laptop 1800 rs is not expensive for them at the first place if they want to take good care of laptop

						After waiting 3 full days, tracking delays, and multiple calls to Flipkart support with zero actual help… I ended up going to the delivery hub myself and picked up the laptop in person. The craziest part? Flipkart has now marked the item as “Delivered by agent” — even though no delivery ever happened. Support is still saying: > “It shows delivered on our system, sir.” So basically, I did their job, and now they’re acting like it was all fine. No ownership. No explanation. No apology.

						Yes, a British citizen can acquire Indian citizenship through marriage, but it's not an automatic process. Under Section 5(1)(c) of the Citizenship Act, 1955, a person who is married to an Indian citizen can apply for Indian citizenship by registration if they have lived in India for at least seven years before applying. This means they must have stayed in In [deleted by user]	LegalAdviceIndia	khatta_nuttela	17	1	https://www.reddi	Additionally, India does not allow dual citizenship, so the British citizen must renounce their UK citizenship upon receiving Indian citizenship. The process includes submitting proof of marriage, residency documents, and undergoing background verification by the Indian government.
[deleted by user]	LegalAdviceIndia	khatta_nuttela	17	1	https://www.reddi	That's what I am saying get him citizenship first if you want an easy process
[deleted by user]	LegalAdviceIndia	khatta_nuttela	17	0	https://www.reddi	Yeah so get married in india and also in both cultures also if he wants to get him an indian citizenship as it will be easy to register marriage btw which city you reside in india?

						Bhai, SBI aur weird cases toh ek dusre ke UPI linked accounts hain daily transactions chalu rehta hai! Sabse WTF case? Ek banda aaya education loan ke liye, ₹50 lakh collateral-free maang raha tha. University rank top 100 thi, CIBIL bhi thik-thak (734), co-applicant ke bhi 776 tha. Bas 11 mahine purana ek DPD issue tha. SBI ne sida reject kar diya, bole "Risky hai. Fir banda bola, Mere paas bohot land hai! Maine bola, Toh collateral laga do. Uska jawab: Saari land agricultural hai. SBI bola, Gaon ke patwari se loan le lo phir. Matlab seriously? Koi insaan Harvard bhi admit ho jaye, aur past DPD hata ke bhi clean ho, tab bhi SBI ne pyaar se Get Lost bol diya.

						Yeah, I get what you're saying. It's like they categorize guys into different roles—best friend, brother, or boyfriend, depending on what they need. If you don't fit into one of those 'main' roles, you're just there for convenience. I can relate to your experience. In my case, I wasn't even doing anything for her, but just the fact that I had a car and was available made me useful. She acted super sweet, flirted, and made it seem like I was special, but once I wasn't needed anymore, everything changed.
Was She Ever Gi	AskIndia	khatta_nuttela	20	1	https://www.reddi	It's definitely a lesson learned—people will use you if you let them. Now, I know better than to take such interactions at face value
						That makes a lot of sense. She did make me feel special in the beginning, but looking back, it seems like she just wanted a backup option or someone to benefit from. I never thought about the 'security' aspect, but it fits—she acted differently when things were going well for her versus when she needed something. I actually knew her for a year before things started changing. After that, I dropped her off a few times, but only because she and her friends specifically requested it. It wasn't something I did from the start.
Was She Ever Gi	AskIndia	khatta_nuttela	20	2	https://www.reddi	And yeah, I've learned my lesson. In the future, I'll definitely be more careful about how much I share and not let someone in too quickly. Thanks for the insight

Was She Ever Gi	AskIndia	khatta_nuttela	20	4	https://www.reddi	Yeah, I've realized that too. It really messes with your head when someone pretends to care but has completely different intentions. Looking back, I can see the manipulation clearly, but at the time, it felt real. Definitely a lesson learned
Was She Ever Gi	AskIndia	khatta_nuttela	20	2	https://www.reddi	This happened a few months ago, and while I've mostly moved on, the way it ended still lingers in my mind. I did try communicating, but she dodged things and never really gave me a straight answer. I later found out more about her behavior from multiple sources, which only confirmed my doubts. At this point, I don't think a confrontation would chang
Was She Ever Gi	AskIndia	khatta_nuttela	20	2	https://www.reddi	I agree, and that's why I took my time to analyze her actions, past behavior, and the way she treated me versus what she said to others. Everything lined up in a way that made it clear she wasn't being genuine

After that, use HDFC PayZapp to pay bills via BBPS using the Fi Money debit card as the payment method. You'll get 2% c P.S. Fi Money is very strict when it comes to opening an account

Any app to pay A	amexindia	khatta_nuttela	20	2	https://www.reddi	If you're looking for a way to pay your AMEX credit card bill and earn rewards or cashback, here's a great option: Use Fi Money: 1. Open a Fi Money account. 2. Use the Fi Money debit card to pay your AMEX credit card bill. 3. You'll earn 2% cashback on the transaction (subject to their cashback terms). Since AMEX isn't supported on CRED, Fi Money is a solid alternative to maximize rewards while paying your bills!
